

TENACIOUS: That marks a Tennessee Williams heroine, the latest being Lynn Redgrave in "Last of the Mobile Hot-Shots," a Technicolor film produced and directed by Sidney Lumet for Warner Bros. from the playwright's smoldering drama, "The Seven Descents of Myrtle." Previous scorching distaff stars, among 14 Williams' works filmed, include (top) Carroll Baker as "Baby Doll" (based on "27 Wagons Full of Cotton"); (center) Elizabeth Taylor, with Paul Newman, in "Cat On a Hot Tin Roof;" and (bottom) Ava Gardner, with Richard Burton, in "The Night of the Iguana." James Coburn and Robert Hooks star with Lynn Redgrave as the tempestuous triangle in "Last of the Mobile Hot-Shots."

Printed in U.S.A.

COPYRIGHT © 1970 BY WARNER BROS. INC.

5

5

PLEASE CREDIT AS FOLLOWS:

THE NEW YORK STATE ARCHIVES
ALBANY, NEW YORK 12242-1000
IS THE DEPOSITORY FOR THE

The Museum of Modern Art's Archive

11 W. 53rd Street, New York City

born
Gene Phillips, Sr.

GENE D. PHILLIPS, Sr.
LOYOLA UNIVERSITY
FACULTY RESIDENCE
6525 N. SHERIDAN RD,
CHICAGO, ILLINOIS 60626

ART

#1